

Globe Regeneration changes to focus on a wider range of market opportunities

1 December 2009

Globe Regeneration Limited is making changes at its Lincoln base to ensure a strong focus on current market opportunities across key areas of the company's work, and build on the skills and experience of its core people.

Moving to an Associate based model, Globe Regeneration Limited will be consolidated under the Globe brand (incorporating the currently related JBX company structure) and be run by Russell Wallis. This change will bring additional opportunities for Globe to develop at both at national and local levels.

Fellow Globe Directors are developing new ventures to work in association with Globe. Through Rose Regeneration Limited, Ivan Annibal will further establish his national reputation on policy and rural development. Jenny Gammon is taking forward an associate based model, focusing on place shaping and broad based economic development.

All Globe Directors remain committed to a strong continued association to benefit all business ventures and ensure a flexible and attractive range of support to current and future clients.